

AGAIN BALLOTING YESTERDAY AT BALTIMORE WITH THE DEADLOCK STILL UNBROKEN

On the Thirtieth Ballot Taken Wilson Climbed
Up To 460 And Clark Dropped Back
To 455.

INDIANA AND VERMONT GO TO WILSON.

Bryan and Clark Controversy Took Form of Card Writing Sunday and Bad Feeling Was Shown.

BALTIMORE, July 1.—At mid-night the convention adjourned until noon tomorrow, at the end of the 42nd ballot. Wilson's vote had increased to 494. Clark had dropped to 422 but was 430 on last ballot. Clark visited Baltimore again to-night but returned to Washington after adjournment. The end of the deadlock is not in sight.

Baltimore, Md., July 1.—The Democratic Convention resumed balloting upon assembling at 11 o'clock today and the first four ballots showed a gain of 53 for Wilson. He got all of Kansas, and 29 in Indiana.
Clark had dropped to 455. The deadlock showed no signs of breaking.

Convention Deadlocked.

Baltimore, Md., July 1.—With the most remarkable deadlock in the history of modern politics confronting it, the Democratic National Convention adjourned shortly before midnight Saturday until Monday at 11 o'clock. On the final ballot Speaker Clark received 463 votes against 407 for Wilson.

Speaker Clark was on his way to Baltimore to appear before the convention and bolster up his forces when adjournment was taken. The Speaker hopes by appearing before the convention, to controvert the effect of an outburst on the part of William Jennings Bryan, who declared himself against Speaker Clark because the latter had accepted the support of the New York delegation, controlled by Tammany Hall.

The Clark forces lost about 90 votes during the course of the 14 ballots taken Saturday. Wilson gained 51.

A Clark leader, to stave off a Clark backslide, attempted to have the convention adjourned at an earlier hour Saturday night, but was unsuccessful, the Wilson forces, flushed with the possibilities of victory, refusing to consent.

Clark's losses during the day almost offset his gain when the New York leaders rallied to his standard.
The adherents of the Speaker, however, are confident they will never be forced below the 363 votes necessary to thwart the nomination of any other candidate.

The appearance of Governor Foss, of Massachusetts, in the field, decreased the lead of Clark. These votes can be regained, say the Clark men. At least, they contend, they will never go to Wilson.

Sunday brought no cessation of hostilities between William Jennings Bryan and Speaker Champ Clark.
Both gave out statements Sunday night.

Mr. Bryan sought to justify his position in opposing the Speaker for the presidency because of the support given him by Charles F. Murphy and the other members of the New York delegation, denominated by the Nebraskan as "wax figures."

Mr. Clark declared "false and infamous" Mr. Bryan's implied accusations that the vote of the New York delegation placed him under obligation to Pierpont Morgan, August Belmont and Thomas F. Ryan.
The Clark statement was in the form of a letter to Senator Wm. J. Stone of Missouri, replying to one pledging him continued support and urging him to remain a candidate before the convention until a nomination was made.

In a statement denying Mr. Bryan's statement, Mr. Clark said in conclusion:

As Speaker, as a lifelong Democrat, proud of my party, as an American man, I pronounce Mr. Bryan's implied accusations both false and infamous.

"If I am speaking the truth with respect to this matter, it follows necessarily that the reasons advanced by Mr. Bryan for departing from the time-honored custom of our party in recognizing the voice of the majority are not reasons at all, but the shallowest of pretexts put forward to achieve some purpose which I shall not attempt to divine.

I bid you, then, say to my friends that I accept with deepest gratitude their renewed assurances of loyalty, and now declare without qualification that my name will remain before the convention, subject to trade or dicker, until two-thirds of the delegates shall ratify or refuse to ratify the action of the majority."

Bryan Replies.

Mr. Bryan said:
"The public is not much interested in Mr. Clark's opinion of me; he will have a long time in which to express his opinion after the convention, whether he is nominated or not, but if I am any judge of the news value of items, the people I would like to know immediately whether he believes that the New York delegation, which is completely under the domination of Mr.
Murphy and which contains among its numbers representatives, attorneys or agents of nearly every predatory interest that is oppressing the people—whether he considers this delegation thus controlled by interests, stands in the same position as delegates which represen-the masses, and whether he has any objection to a nomination made possible only by the support of the New York delegation.

Where Clark Failed.

"I have tried to advise Mr. Clark in his own interest, as I believe, as well as in the interest of his party, and it is a source of great disappointment to me that he should have listened to personal enemies of mine more than he has to me.

"I believe that Mr. Clark is right at heart, but during the last few days he has been misled and has failed to take advantage of the opportunities presented to throw his influence in the balance when questions of great importance were at issue.

Sees the End.

"I see no reason why we should not conclude the convention Monday with the nomination of both a President and vice President," said Mr.
Bryan. "The friends of the various candidates have fought out their differences and, in their loyalty to the men of their choice have consumed more than is usually devoted to balloting. There is every reason why the progressives should get together and select a ticket."

Mr. Bryan said he took it for granted that there was no chance for the nomination of either Harmon, of Ohio, or Underwood, of Alabama, whom he designated as the choice of a reactionary element in the party. He suggested that if the convention could agree upon either Governor Wilson, of New Jersey, or Speaker Clark, of Missouri, an available man to head the ticket might be found in a list which he furnished, comprising the names of Senator Kern, of Indiana; Senator elect Ollie James, of Kentucky; Senator O'Gorman, of New York; Senator Culberson, of Texas, and Senator Rayner, of Maryland.

After the 34th ballot, upon which Wilson gained 41 more votes, the

BUILDING WILL BE A BEAUTY

Will Front 41 Feet On Ninth Street And Will Seat
650.

This year in the way of building operations will be a record breaker for Hopkinsville. Leading every city and town in the State for increase in population according to the U. S. census, excepting Middles-boro (which is a booming town) there is no question as to it being first in the way of improvements.

We can scarcely begin to mention the number of handsome homes now in process of construction and these to be built with the coming of fall.
Everywhere you go new houses are going up and architects and contractors have as much and more than they can do to keep up with the demands made upon them, some working their force over time.

New House Of Amusement.

A new moving picture show building is the latest contract entered into. The man that thus banks on the future growth and prosperity of Hopkinsville—the man who backs his faith with his money—is W. T.
Cooper. "Money talks," and Mr.
Cooper is always there when the dollars get to jingling and are crying out for something to do. Mr.
Cooper's dollars are busy dollars, as he is always one of the very busiest of men.

The Rex Co.

The new house of amusement is to be built for the Rex Amusement Co., of this city. The Rex Co. has leased it for a long term of years and during the time of the lease will present the very best of all moving picture shows and all special exhibitions that will be demanded by its patrons. This company is composed of the following gentlemen: Dr. R.
F. McDaniell, President; Wm. F.
Grau, Vice President; J. T. Shrode,
Secretary; J. W. Smith, Treasurer.

The Very Best Location.

The new amusement temple will occupy the vacant ground on East Ninth just beyond the Phoenix building and will have a frontage of 41 feet, but the two rooms occupied by Stonewall Morris and the Business Men's Association will be torn down to make room for the new structure.

The Building.

The building will be two stories high and will be constructed of light buff brick. The seating capacity will be 650 opera chairs. This includes the gallery. The main entrance will of course be on Ninth street, the front of the floor being on a line with the sidewalk and given a gradual slope to the rear of the main room, thus altogether doing away with steps. There will also be a Ninth street entrance to the part of the building set aside for the colored people. There will be three fire exits to the building. The foyer will have marble wainscoting, and the floor laid with tiling. The ornamental relief decorations throughout and the paneled ceiling in blending tones will produce a most pleasing effect.

SCHOOL CASE DECIDED

Contract Between City And County Boards Is Upheld.

TO PAY $15,000 IN 5 YEARS

Vality Of Contract Was Attacked By County Superintendent, Miss West.

In Circuit Court Saturday Judge Hanbery decided the suit involving the legality of the contract entered into by the County Board of Education with the City Board of Trustees, by which the county is to pay $3,000 a year for five years for High School tuition. The contract was opposed by Miss Jennie West, who retained Yost & Laffoon to fight the case. The judge decided the case in favor of the Board of Education, upholding the contract in every respect. He ordered the $3,000 due Jan. 5, 1912, to be paid and he put the cost of the action upon the defendants. It is reported that Miss West had provided for this outcome by raising a private subscription.

Unless an appeal is taken, this settles the long-down-out contest, and the $15,000 to be paid by the county insures the completion of the new High School without a further bonded debt.

Saving of 27,000 Lives.

In the decade from 1901 to 1910, the death rate from tuberculosis in the United States declined from 196.9 for each 100,000 persons living to 160.3, a decrease of 18.7 per cent, while the general health rate, including all causes of death, declined only one-half as fast, or at the rate of 9.7 per cent, from 1655.0 to 1495.8.

These figures were given out in a statement issued by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis. They are based on data abstracted from the reports of the United States Bureau of the Census, and cover the registration area of this country. According to the statement, the tuberculosis death rate has declined steadily since 1904, when it was 201.6. On the other hand, the general death rate shows a fluctuation downward in general trend, but not as steady as the tuberculosis rate. The decline in the tuberculosis death rate in the last ten years means a saving of 27,000 lives at the present time.

A Hero in a Lighthouse.

For years J. S. Donahue, South Haven, Mich., a civil war captain, as a lighthouse keeper, averted awful wrecks, but a queer fact is, he might have been a wreck himself, if Electric Bites had not prevented. "They cured me of kidney trouble and chills," he writes, "after I had taken other so called cures for years, without benefit and they also improved my sight. Now, at seventy, I am feeling fine." For dyspepsia, indigestion, all stomach, liver and kidney troubles, they're without equal. Try them. Only 50 cents at all druggists.

Jim Lemon On Kissing.

An effort is being made by the health authorities of the state of New York, to have stringent laws passed against kissing. It is claimed that many bad diseases are transmitted from one person to another by the old time custom of kissing. This has been a custom probably since the foundation of the world and has grown to such an extent that efforts will be made to prohibit it. As the editor of the Messenger has about run his course in the kissing business, he has no objection whatever to the law.—Mayfield Messenger.

A Girl's Wild Mid-Night Ride.

To warn people of a fearful forest fire in the Catskills a young girl rode horseback at midnight and saved many lives. Her deed was glorious but lives are often saved by Dr. King's New Discovery in curing lung trouble, coughs and colds, which might have ended in consumption or pneumonia. "It cured me of a dreadful cough and lung disease," writes W. R. Patterson, Wellington, Tex., "after four in our family had died with consumption, and I gained 87 pounds." Nothing so sure and safe for all throat and lung troubles. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by all druggists.

Preacher Killed.

Madisonville, Ky., June 26.—The Rev. Thomas Farmer, a young Methodist preacher of Earlinton, Ky., aged 22, was run over by a coal car and died shortly afterward at the St. Bernard hospital. The young minister married an Elkton girl only a month ago. He expected to be in the Louisville conference this fall. The funeral was conducted by the Rev. Walter Martin of Earlinton, and the interment was at Coffey.

The Valley of Renunciation

"O that we two were Maying!"

There were tears in the vibrant contralto voice as it poured forth Kingsley's plaintive words in the exquisite Nevin setting. The room was shrouded in twilight, but the fingers of the woman at the piano were sure, and the throbbing melody rose and fell with never a false note.

"Don't sing any more of it, Aunt Edith," wailed a sad little voice; "I can't bear it."

The woman's hands left the piano with a discordant crash and, uttering an exclamation of surprise, she crossed the music room to the oak settle, where, face down among the gay cushions, lay the owner of the protesting voice.

"Why, Iris, dear!" she exclaimed. "Whatever is the matter? I didn't know you were here."

There was no answer save a muffled sob and, laying her hand upon the fluffy hair of the weeping girl, Edith Vane stood silent until her niece's grief should have spent itself.

Presently Iris raised herself to a sitting posture and, dropping down beside her, Edith drew the pretty head to her shoulder and said, "Now, Iris, tell me all about it. What has grieved you so?" "It's Ralph," said Iris, her voice breaking. "He—he doesn't love me; he never did love me; I think I want to die."

The sobs began again. "Why, my child, how can you say so?" said her aunt. "You are to be married to Ralph in ten months."

"But he doesn't love me, and yet I can't give him up," quavered Iris. "How do you know he doesn't love you?" was the question.

"Because he said so," was the anguished reply. "Not to me, but nevertheless I heard him. You see, it was this way. You know that awfully pretty girl who does such darling French embroidery?"

"Miss Esmond?" asked Edith.

"Yes," replied Iris. "She has made perfectly wonderful things for a lot of girls I know who are engaged, and I thought I'd get her to do some work for me; so I went out to her house. It's just a little cottage in the suburbs, and you have to take two different cars to get there. The door was open, and there was no bell. I knocked and knocked, but no one came, so, as I had come so far, I thought it would do no harm to just go inside and wait. There was a wee hall that opened into a dear little living room, and I went into it and sat down."

"When I had been there about ten minutes I heard some one coming up the steps, and I was just about to step out into the hall, when I heard Ralph's voice saying, 'Sweetheart, I can't lose you. Let me tell her.' Then I heard the sweetest voice say, 'No, Ralph; you must keep your word. It has all been a terrible mistake, but you should never have doubted me. It nearly killed me when you left me, and now that I have seen you I must live the same old agony over again. But I shall send you away from me, for it is right.'"

"Do you think it right for me to deceive the girl who loves me, to marry her when all the love is yours?" Ralph asked her, almost angrily. "Yes," she said, but her lips quivered. "She must never know. We had our chance and we failed. Now, we must face the battle like good soldiers. You are fond of this girl, and in time love will come and you will forget me." She looked at him with her great, brave, brown eyes, and he just groaned and put both arms tightly around her.

"Is this the end, Norma?" he said, and she didn't say a word—just nodded her head; but her face was white as death. Then he took her face between his palms and on the forehead and eyes, and once on the mouth. "Goodby, my beloved," he said, and fairly ran out of the house. Then the girl leaned her head on her arms with her face to the wall, and cried and cried.

"I slipped out of the house while she stood there and she never saw me, and I came straight here," concluded Iris, her voice husky, "to look things in the face. I had made up my mind to give him up, when you came in and began to sing, and then it seemed as though I just couldn't. What shall I do, Aunt Edith? I love him so."

"My child," said her aunt, "there must be no hesitation. There is only one way. You are not the only woman who has gone down in the Valley of Renunciation. Ralph's love is not nor never was yours. What you have heard today proves it. Therefore, by holding him to his word you are wronging not only him and this girl, but yourself more deeply. You cannot afford to pass your life with a man whose heart is and may always be elsewhere. Other women have tried to do so and failed. I am one of them."

"Aunt Edith!" Iris' two hands clasped those of her aunt with almost savage intensity. "Do you mean that you—that Uncle Arthur loved someone else?"

"Yes, dear," was the quiet answer. "I learned it by accident soon after we were married. It embittered my whole life. He was always good, always kind and considerate; but he never loved me. He had given his heart to another girl before he ever met me, and a lover's quarrel had separated them. Now that he is gone I realize more fully what I might have saved him if I had known. He sacrificed us both from a mistaken sense of honor, just as Ralph will do, rather than tell you the truth. Brave the bitterness of renunciation, my child, rather than go down to your grave an unloved wife."

The twilight deepened into dusk. Still with clasped hands the two sat silent. The woman who had not known lived briefly over again her unloved years, while the girl who knew went bravely down the dark path to the Valley of Renunciation.—Illustrated Buffalo Express.

THE ONLY SOLUTION.

A colored woman's only son had the misfortune of having but one pair of pants. These being badly in need of washing, she put the child to bed and washed them. After allowing them to become dry she proceeded to again dress the youngster, when to her profound astonishment the pants were many sizes too small for him. "Befo' de lawd, what shall Ah do?" she lamented, "the chile hasn't got a nuther rag what's he can put on." At this instant the parson arrived on the scene and taking in the situation exclaimed: "Ma deah sister, de solution is easy; jus' wash the chile."

"LOOK OUT FOR THE CARS"

DO YOU know of anyone who is old enough to read, who has not seen that sign at a railroad crossing?

If everyone has seen it at some time or other, then why doesn't the railroad let the sign rot away? Why does the railroad company continue to keep those signs at every crossing?

Maybe you think, Mr. Merchant, "Most everybody knows my store, I don't have to advertise." Your store and your goods need more advertising than the railroads need to warn people to "Look Out for the Cars."

Nothing is ever completed in the advertising world.

The Department Stores are a very good example—they are continually advertising—and they are continually doing a good business.

If it pays to run a few ads round about Christmas time, it certainly will pay you to run advertisements about all the time.

It's just business, that's all, to

CHILD MORTALITY IN RUSSIA

Appalling Number of Infants Die There Annually, Many Being Killed by Pigs.

St. Petersburg had a "Day of Violets" this spring, when a couple of thousand young people, including many schoolboys and schoolgirls, spread through the city and sold artificial violets in order to raise funds to aid in combating the appalling infant mortality in Russia. No fewer than 2,000,000 infants die annually in fifty governments of European Russia and in the Samara government the death rate amounts to 58 per cent. Statistics show that of four and a half million children over three million die before reaching the age of five years.

The mortality is much higher in the summer than in the winter, for every peasant adult is occupied in field work and the children are consequently neglected. A large number are killed and eaten by pigs every year in the absence of any guardians. So great, indeed, is the mortality from this cause that in many districts the land owners when making contracts with their peasant tenants stipulate that no pigs may be kept on their holdings.

IS QUEEN OF GREENSTONES

Transparent Bowenite, or "Tungiwai" Is Found on South Island of New Zealand.

An important discovery is reported of a large outcrop of greenstone in a hitherto unexplored mountainous district on the west coast of the south island of New Zealand, which is thought to be the original mother reef from which all the greenstone found in that island is derived. It is anticipated that it will hereafter be so plentiful that its use will no longer be confined to local souvenir jewelry, but will be used for mantle pieces, table tops, monuments, etc., and will also be exported to China, where greenstone, in the form of jade, is regarded with peculiar veneration. The discovery of transparent bowenite, known as "tungiwai," the queen of greenstones, near Milford sound, on the west coast of the south island of New Zealand, is regarded as one of great importance in mineralogical circles, for it comprises the rarest and most valued quality of greenstone known in New Zealand, and probably in the world.

SEND PICTURES BY TELEGRAPH.

Paris newspapers are now making practical use of a process for telegraphing photographs. The apparatus is a modification of the photograph-transmitting apparatus which was invented by Dr. Korn of Munich some years ago, and which depended upon the use of selenium and the fact that the amount of electrical current which passes through it varies according to the intensity of the light falling upon it. The new method does away with selenium and allows for a larger electrical current so as to counteract disturbances upon the line. Photographs are being reproduced in Paris by means of transmission over the telephone wires from Monte Carlo, 550 miles away, and the reproductions, while not as perfect as they would be if the line were free from disturbances, are nevertheless remarkably good.

GIFTS TO COLLEGES.

Mrs. Russell Sage has given an additional $65,000 to Princeton university to go toward the completion of Holder hall. The whole of Holder hall, including Holder tower, is the gift of Mrs. Sage. The section for which the additional gift is to be used is the university dining halls. Mrs. J. K. Paine has given $38,000 to Harvard to establish the John Knowles Paine fellowship in music; Mrs. Caroline M. Barnard has given $24,000 and Mrs. C. R. Sanger many books and pamphlets from the library of the late Prof. Charles Robert Sanger.

Mrs. Hokus—My husband is so considerate. He was afraid smoking would ruin the curtains.

Mrs. Pokus—And so he stopped smoking?

Mrs. Hokus—No, he went and took down the curtains.—Puck.

Worth Weight In Gold

Abingdon, Va.—Mrs. Jennie McCall, of this place, says: "I had been troubled with female complaints for over ten years. I could not walk or stand on my feet, and had been almost confined to the house, for a long time. I began to take Cardui, the woman's tonic, and now I can walk anywhere I want to go. Cardui is worth its weight in gold." This is a high estimate on a plain, herb medicine, yet there are thousands of women who would gladly pay this price for a remedy to relieve their suffering. Cardui has helped others. Why not you? Try it. Your druggist sells it, in $1. bottles.

KING ALFONSO IS IMPULSIVE

His Subjects Have Been Stimulated by the Boyish Personality of Spain's Ruler.

King Alfonso of Spain, who celebrated his twenty-sixth birthday recently, is certainly the most versatile monarch his country ever possessed, and he has done much thoroughly to awaken his subjects to the needs of the twentieth century.

Quite apart from his kingly personality, there is a human side to King Alfonso that appeals strongly to everyone. In many ways he is so boyish, so impressionable, so unconventional.

Not many years ago the king's sister intrusted him with the purchase of a hat, and his majesty spent the better part of an hour in a shop trying to make a selection for the infant.

At the end of that time King Alfonso suggested that as he and his sister were so much alike, what would suit him would also suit her. He then gravely tried the toques on his own head, till he came upon one that took his fancy.

Whether the infant was equally satisfied the story does not tell.—Answers.

CRUEL SPORT

SICK-ROOM CHEER.

This is what Florence Nightingale had to say on the subject of how the well are liable to err in their dealings with the sick. "How often the sick person," she remarked, "has to do the whole conversation when a visitor comes to his house—thus having to exert his imagination and memory. . . . " "A sick person," she continued, "does so enjoy hearing good news, particularly of a love affair that is likely to have a good ending! He has so much of books and fiction, of principles, precepts and theories. Oh, let him hear of any material good, or practical success, and do, instead of giving him advice that he has heard fifty times over, tell him something good, something amusing. It is like a day's health to him."

UNCERTAIN APPLE TREE.

An apple tree is the result of a graft from the tree that is known to be a producer of a certain kind and flavor of apples. If the seed were planted and one relied on it to produce a select grade of fruit the result would be disappointing, for the reason that from the seed the most remarkable varieties will be shown. Perhaps they will be miserable little crabapples or misshapen, bitter fruit or a useless conglomeration. The seed somehow or other harks back to its origin, notwithstanding years of cultivation. The varieties of apples known today are a result of careful selection and constant grafting of the better kind from year to year until the present development has been reached.—Harper's Weekly

MOSLEM POWER.

The power of Islam was founded upon the Koran, and the Koran to the natives of Nigeria was at once the constitution, the charter and the bill of right. It was often overlooked that Islam was not only a religion, but a social system; that to attack the religion was to attack the fabric upon which society reposed, and that to attack the fabric was to attack the religion. We must then beware of doing anything to undermine the constitution of our Nigerian subjects by introducing legislation and judicial machinery which did not and could not prove a substitute for what they already had.—Lecture by E. D. Morel in London.

Bitulithic, a Compound of Asphalt and Stone, to Be Used.

The City Council held a brief session Friday night with all present. Bids were opened in the matter of building 13,000 square yards of street paving and the Southern Bitulithic Co., of Nashville, was the only bidder, putting in a bid of $1.50 a square yard for bitulithic and $2.35 for vitrified brick. The former bid was accepted and contract ordered entered into by the mayor. The same company was also awarded the contract for about 700 feet of headers at 30 cents a lineal foot. There were two other bids for this work, one 28¢ cents, but the council thought it best to have the same contractor do all the work. Ordinances were adopted fixing the specifications and authorizing the contract.

Two ordinances intended to suppress street walking and preventing men from entering houses occupied by women of bad reputation were passed.

The Architects.

Messrs. Waller & Brodie, of this city, are the men who furnished the plans and specifications for Mr. Cooper, who told them to take their time and show him something entirely new and original for his new building. After working on different lines for several months the architects presented to Mr. Cooper a general view that met his approval. The architects have reason to be proud of their efforts in producing something that everybody will admire.

Early Completion.

The general contractor is E. H. Hester and the contractors for the brick work are Dalton Bros. It is expected that the building will be completed within sixty days. The general arrangement and decorations of the audience room will be left to the Rex Amusement Co., who will spare neither pains nor expense to make it the most beautiful to be seen anywhere. They have carte blanche from Mr. Cooper to exhaust every resource in making the general interior far superior to anything heretofore known in this section.

The initial work in getting ready for construction was begun yesterday and the contractors are prepared to push things to a quick finish.

PROF. L. ROUDEBUSH

Lectures On Agriculture In Afternoon and at Night On Arctic Region.

Prof. Lowell Roubush, of New Richmond, O., a distinguished lecturer on agricultural subjects, delivered two addresses yesterday under the auspices of the Business Men's Association. The first was on "Crimes Against the Soil" at 10 o'clock in the forenoon at the City Court room. It was heard by a good crowd. The other on "Noxious Weeds" was delivered in the Circuit Court room in the afternoon. Mr. Roubush has been lecturing for 15 years and for the last 8 years in Kentucky. He spoke a few years ago at Pembroke.

Last night at the Baptist church at 8 o'clock, Mr. Lowell Roubush delivered his lecture, entitled, "Uncle Sam's Land of the Midnight Sun." No one should miss hearing this lecture. Mr. Roubush was a member of an arctic expedition several years ago and was the only survivor of the party, who lost their lives by shipwreck.

It must be borne in mind that the lecture to the farmers yesterday morning at 10 and in the afternoon at 3, as well as the lecture at night, are all free. The types in our issue of last Tuesday made us say that Mr. Roubush "always demands pay." We wrote that the lectures are always in demand. He is a practical farmer and freely gives the knowledge he has gained by study and experience to his brother farmers, only asking to have his expenses paid. The expenses of his trip here are borne by Commissioner of Agriculture Newman.

Our forefathers valiantly fought against the tyranny of a king—the rule of a monarch

Our mothers, wives and sisters find that a Monarch gives them freedom from the drudgery to the kitchen.

It Will Be A Glorious Fourth For The Housewife Who Installs A Monarch Malleable Range

In her home

The Monarch is the best range for summer use as it lightens your work. It consumes much less fuel than other stoves or ranges. There is less coal to carry—less wood to split—fewer ashes to handle. The malleable top of the Monarch heats through quickly, doing away with the necessity of starting a fire long before you wish to use it. The polished top of the Monarch never needs blacking. The disagreeably hot, mussy task of blacking a stove is done away with. This reduces the heat in the kitchen.

We are loyal to the Monarch. We ought to be. It has pleased our customers and brought more trade to our store. We are confident that it will please you just as it has thousands of others everywhere.

Won't you call and see it? Won't you allow us to go with you into every detail? Won't you let us tell you just how the Monarch is made—just what it will accomplish—just how it will save you money, time and labor? We want to explain the reasons why it will do all this and more.

We want to show you its many improvements, conveniences and advantages. You will be happily surprised and greatly interested in this ideal range—the Monarch.

Thirty Cent Schedule Went Into Effect Yesterday.

REDUCTIONS ARE GENERAL

Applying To Both Western Union and Postal Importtant Companies

Reductions in the tariff schedules of the Western Union and the Postal Telegraph companies effecting many thousand points in the United States went into operation yesterday. Both companies have hitherto graduated rates for a ten-word message, according to the distance of transmission in such a manner that the tolls varied from 25 cents to $1 in the United States, the first jump being from 25 cents to 40 cents, the next highest charge. A 30-cent rate will go into effect Monday for many points.

The reduction from 40 to 30 cents will apply at all of the 25,000 stations of the Western Union, so far as other stations are concerned, and also for the Postal.

T. R. Terhune of Nashville, district superintendent of the Western Union, received new rate sheets for Tennessee, Kentucky and Mississippi, and the new tariff rates took effect Monday.

LUCILE DECIDES

A Case Where the Best Man Won

Ever since Christmas Lucile Rodgers had been trying to make up her mind which man she would marry. Within a week the two men who had paid her marked attention since she had met them, when first she came to visit Aunt Amelia in September, had each asked her to marry him.

Henry Clayton, cashier of the bank, who occupied a prominent social position in the town, had sent Lucile a beautifully written letter, straightforward and manly, in which he set forth his ambition to become president of the bank, his present income and future prospects.

He told her that, notwithstanding the difference in their ages, for he was twelve years her senior, he had never loved before.

He would be honored to make a woman of her beauty, grace and exemplary character his wife.

Hugh Clark was just one year older than Lucile, an electrical engineer, and at that time superintendent of the light plant.

Hugh could not boast of a college education. Ever since he was graduated from high school the world had been his training school. By hard work, study and persistence he had made his way in the world, winning his position purely on the merit of his work.

Lucile admired and respected Mr. Clayton as a young girl would look up to an older man. Clayton was a city-bred man, possessing all the polished manners of a son of society. Clark, resembling a diamond in the rough, lacked the polish of his rival, and was more a favorite with men than women. Whenever Lucile thought of him it was as a whole-souled, generous boy, a congenial comrade—one whom she could trust to the uttermost; whereas, with Clayton, she was sometimes ill at ease, feeling herself an inexperienced child in the presence of a wise man.

Aunt Amelia wanted her to marry Clayton. He had arrived; he was the man who would give her a well-appointed home and an established place in society. Besides, Clayton had settled habits; there was no danger of his ever sowing any "wild oats."

Surely, Lucile would choose the older man and send the "boy" about his business.

But Lucile could not make up her mind. She felt that she cared deeply for Hugh Clark, yet the glamor of the older man's attentions was very sweet to the young country girl. Then, too, Hugh's hands were rough and spoiled with work. He never seemed to be able to get the stain of grease and machine oil from under his nails. They were big, strong hands that looked larger than ever in white-gloves when he donned his evening clothes.

Henry had long, slim, smooth hands that scarcely touched yours when he shook hands with you; but Aunt Amelia said it was the little niceties that counted for happiness in domestic life, and Henry was so dainty about himself.

It was the night of the big sleet storm, when fire broke out in one of the Italian shanties in the lower end of the town.

A cutting northeast wind fanned the flames, which spread with marvelous rapidity. A dance was in full swing in the opera house when the bells and whistles gave the first warning of the fire. Men and women both donned their overcoats and furs and went to watch the spectacle. Lucile was dancing with Mr. Clayton when the first alarm was given. She wanted to go at once, but he told her it was just the dago settlement burning out and she had better not go out into the storm.

Lucile insisted, however, so Clayton brought his motor car around and bundled her in beside him.

"It's perfectly ridiculous, Lucile, for us to go to this silly fire. We cannot do anything to stop it, and it isn't a fit night for either one of us to be out. We will both take cold, I know."

"Oh, please do hurry, Mr. Clayton," urged Lucile. "We may be able to help a little. Just think of all those poor creatures with no homes to go to."

"You don't expect to take any of them home with you, I hope," declared Clayton. "I wouldn't let one of them get into this machine for a hundred dollars."

In a few minutes they had reached the outskirts of the crowd.

Jabbering men rushed about shouting orders in Italian.

Groups of women and children huddled together in all stages of deshabille, some wrapped only in an old quilt or blanket, others in any old ragged garment they had been able to snatch up as they made their escape from burning buildings.

The townsmen were doing their best to aid the firemen in a hopeless fight. Lucile wanted to help, too, but Clayton held her firmly in her seat, declaring he would take her home at once if she dared to move.

As she sat there a man's figure approached. His hat was gone, the bosom of his dress shirt, smudged with dirt. It was Hugh Clark, who had been helping the firemen.

"Come along, Clayton; we need every man we can get to move those insane people out of danger. Lend a hand, man, the whole settlement will go and everybody must help."

Then back he rushed into the midst of the turmoil. Clayton did not budge, but swore under his breath that he didn't care a d— if the whole blooming place was burned; he didn't intend to spoil his clothes for a bunch of dirty dagoes.

Just then a little Italian man rushed up to him, and in broken English cried, appealingly: "My wife, my little baby; help me to get them out!"

"Oh, go and help him!" urged Lucile. Then, seeing Hugh coming toward them again, she jumped from the auto and rushed to him.

"Hugh this man's wife and baby are in danger. Can't we get them?"

"Go back, Lucile; I'll do what I can!" he cried, following the frenzied man into a doorway that was already framed in flames. It seemed to Lucile as if years passed as she stood motionless watching the house Hugh had entered.

She saw the flames creep up the front and burst from the windows on the second floor. Then a corner of the roof fell in, and flames burst from the single window on the lower floor. The whole interior seemed to be a caldron of living fire. Seconds passed that were to the watching girl as long as hours. At last Hugh appeared in the doorway, dragging something behind him and carrying a bundle in his arms.

He came to her directly, laying the bundle in her outstretched arms, and said:

"The mother was dead when I got there. The father has fainted. Take the baby home, Lucile, until we can make some arrangement for its future." Then he rushed back to help the firemen.

Clayton still sat in his automobile, but Lucile walked through the storm to her aunt's home, where she cared for the tiny infant as only a girl with a woman's heart can.

Before she reached the house, however, she had decided to which man she would trust her own life.

LOOKING FOR THE SIMILARITY.

"I resemble Thomas Jefferson," said the self-confident politician.

"I hadn't observed it," replied Miss Cayenne; "but possibly you play the fiddle."

VETERAN OF WEATHER.

"Will you please help an old survivor, mum?"

"An old survivor of what?"

"Of the winter of 1912, mum."

Body of Tom Payne Buried In Riverside Cemetery With Elks Honors.

The body of Thos. L. Payne arrived from Amarillo, Texas, Saturday morning at 5 o'clock in charge of F. C. Hickey, of the Amarillo Elks Lodge.

The funeral services were held at the First Baptist church Sunday afternoon at three o'clock. Rev. C. M. Thompson preached an appropriate sermon and the burial services of the Order of Elks were conducted by Madisonville Lodge No. 738. A delegation of 19 came up from Madisonville headed by Exalted Ruler J. F. Dempsey. It was intended to conclude the service at the grave, but a rain came up and they were held in the church. Later the clouds cleared away and the burial followed in Riverside Cemetery.

Thos. L. Payne was a son of the late L. P. Payne and was born Sept. 19, 1881. He moved to Texas about three years ago. He is survived by three brothers and one sister, all of whom were present at his funeral, the brothers each accompanied by their wives. They are R. C. Payne, of Jackson, Tenn.; Gabe A. Payne, of Clarksville, Tenn.; L. P. Payne, of Nortonville, Ky., and Mrs. Cora Payne Dalton, of this city.

The Elks from Madisonville who conducted the rites of the order of which deceased was a member were: Judge J. F. Dempsey, E. R. C. W. Lindsay, Wm. Osborne, Harry Scott, Harry Stewart, Fray Ashby, N. G. Hollinger, Jas. Williams, Ernest Williams, B. W. Gordon, H. F. E. Bartly, Dr. J. E. Taylor, Ed Carroll, Herschel Wilson, Tom Sory, Perkins Adams, Sam Arnold, Jas. L. Brown and Carl Kohlman.

NONOGENARIAN

From Hopkins County Dies
At Asylum.

Mrs. Virginia Holoman, received at the Western Asylum about two months ago from Hopkins county for treatment, died at the institution Saturday night of chronic dysentery and old age. She was 92 years old. The remains were shipped to Madisonville Sunday.

Fleming County Patient.

Andrew Bollinger, aged 58 years, died at the Asylum Friday of interstitial nephritis. He was a native of Fleming county and had been here about six years. The body was interred in the Asylum burying ground.

CAMP MEETING

At Kuttawa Begins Thursday,
July 18.

The annual camp meeting at Kuttawa will begin Thursday, July 18. The grounds this year will be under the management of Rev. W. F. Cashman, of Russellville, assisted by Rev. Pat H. Davis, the noted revivalist, and Rev. G. W. Lyon, of this city, one of the best known singing evangelists in the state, who will have with him Capt. Dan Schorer, a noted cornetist and leader of the German Marine band.

False Alarm.

At 5:15 yesterday afternoon a false fire alarm was turned in and the department was called to Frankel's stores. The firemen made prompt answer, but who called them out is not known. People should remember that turning in a false alarm is punishable by fine.

LANGUAGE NEEDS NEW WORD

Pronoun That Includes Lady and Gentleman at the Same Time Should Be Devised.

Every now and then somebody gets worked up because we lack a convenient pronoun that includes a lady and gentleman at the same time. Her or she, so to speak, gets tired of saying he or she when he or she means him or her without reference to his or her sex. The device is obviously clumsy when you come to think of it, although the fact that the language has worried along for so many centuries has made most of us pretty well used to it.

Just now some of these people are suggesting the adoption of a new word, "thon." Anybody, they say, who wishes to simplify thon speech will do thon duty by expressing thon opinion.

Nevertheless, we doubt the immediate admission of "thon." If the innovators are really determined to find a he-or-she substitute, we advise them to send for George Ade and engage him to invent one that can jump gayly into common speech as the latest addition to our slang vocabulary. That's the way to get a new word into the language.—Judge's Library.

NO ROOM FOR DOUBT

"His environment inclines him to reticence."
"You think so?"
"I'm positive. He lives with his wife and her mother."

PARK ROCKER FOR FIVE CENTS.

San Jose, Cal., is trying in its park a bench devised E. W. Allen for use in connection with the free seats. It is a swinging seat so arranged that until a nickel is deposited in a slot the back is tilted forward and the seat downward so that it cannot be used. A coin releases it, however, and provides a rocking seat for two persons. As soon as they leave the seat swings back to its former position and requires another nickel to unlock it. In sunny places the bench is placed under a canopy. The inventor believes that Sundays and other times when there are unusual crowds in the park many people will be willing to spend a nickel for a comfortable seat for their exclusive use.

EXPANDING MAMMA.

"William," said a teacher in a physiology class, "can you give a simple example of the human body as it adapts itself to changed conditions?"
"Yes-sum," answered William, "my mother gained 55 pounds last year and her skin never cracked."—Satire.

COLD AND CALCULATING.

"Is that a garden you are making?"
"No," replied Mr. Crosslots; "it's a subterfuge. I tear up as much of the yard as my wife will allow me to and then let it alone all summer. It's just that much less territory to run the lawn mower over."

WHAT HE OBJECTED TO.

Visiting Chaplain—Ah, my brother, this world is full of trials.
Prisoner—Oh, dry up, gov-nor! Think I dunno that? It ain't the trials I minds, it's the verdicts.—Sketch.

AMBIGUOUS.

"Do you think the hobble skirt is going out of style?"
"I must say the aptitudes for it are very slim."

A POPULAR MEDIUM.

"Lasbit says he never uses slang."
"Then he must be sadly misunderstood."

CHILDREN'S KIDNEYS

No Hopkinsville Mother Should Neglect The Little One's Health.

Often times weak kidneys cause great annoyance and embarrassment to children. Inability to control the kidney secretions, at night or while at play, is attributed to carelessness and too frequently the child is punished. Parents having children troubled with kidney weakness would do well to treat the kidneys with a tested and proven kidney remedy. If there is pain in the back, discolored urine, irregular urination, headaches, dizzy spells or a tired worn-out feeling, try Doan's Kidney Pills at once. A remedy that has been used in kidney troubles for over 50 years and has been recommended by thousands. Proof of merit in a Hopkinsville citizen's statement. Mr. J. T. Canron, 609 O'Neal St., Hopkinsville, Ky., says: "I have given Doan's Kidney Pills to my children at various times and always find them beneficial. Whenever one of my children is bothered with kidney weakness, a few doses of Doan's Kidney Pills relieve the attack. I can highly recommend this remedy as a cure for kidney trouble."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

CERULEAN SPRINGS

May Get Next Meeting of Kentucky Druggists.

At their annual meeting at Frankfort last week Cerulean Springs was one of the places named by the State Pharmaceutical Association for next year's meeting, with chances in favor of the Trigg county resort. The State pill makers have had a taste of Cerulean water and banquetted there to the full and may go there again to fill up.

Most disfiguring skin eruptions, scrofula, pimples, rashes, etc., are due to impure blood. Burdock Bitters as a cleansing blood tonic, is well recommended. $1.00 at all stores.

Phrase Famous.

Gen. Edward S. Bragg, whose death at Fond du Lac, Wis., has been reported, was a gallant soldier and capable commander in the Civil War. He served four terms in Congress, and as Minister to Mexico and Consul General to Havana and Hong Kong. But his name was made more generally familiar to the public by a phrase, or sentence, which he uttered in the Democratic National Convention in 1884. When he was seconding the nomination of Grover Cleveland he used the words "We love him for the enemies he has made," a saying that has become famous.

Another prominent man and soldier named Bragg—Gen. Braxton Bragg, of the Confederate army—became famous by a phrase. Bragg had command of a battery at the battle of Buena Vista in Mexico, and at a critical juncture of the combat Gen. Taylor ordered, "A little more grape Capt. Bragg."—Nashville Democrat.

One way to relieve habitual constipation is to take regularly a mild laxative. Doan's Regulets are recommended for this purpose. 25c a box at all drug stores.

More Oil For Streets.

Another car of oil has been received and the streets in the business section will be oiled as soon as it can be done, except the streets to be rebuilt with bitulithic during the summer.

Itching piles provoke profanity but profanity won't remove them. Doan's Ointment is recommended for itching, bleeding or protruding piles. 50c at any drug store.

Value of Contentment.

A contented mind is the greatest blessing a man can enjoy in this world, and if, in the present life, his happiness arises from conquering his desires, it will arise in the next from the gratification of them.

For earache, toothache, pains, burns, scalds, sore throat, try Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, a splendid remedy for emergencies.

MEASURES ODOR OF FLOWERS

Balance Invented by Italian Physicist Shows Weight of the Perfume Emitted.

The amount of odor given off by flowers, essential oils and other substances has long been a matter of wonder, which has found expression in the statement that a grain of musk may perfume an apartment for years without appreciable loss.

But Signor Salvioni, an Italian physicist, has now made the loss measurable. He has devised a balance sensitive enough to weigh even odors, and said to depend for its chief part upon a very fine thread of glass fixed at one end and extending horizontally.

The substance to be weighed is placed on the free end. This causes a deflection, and the amount is measured by a micrometer, having its readings, great care being taken to avoid errors from such causes as temperature variations and air currents.

It is claimed that, with proper adjustment, a variation in weight as small as the thousandth of a milligram—or one fifteen-thousandth of a grain—can be accurately determined.—Newark News.

DIDN'T HAVE HIS NAPKIN ON

Farmer Thought His Wife Had Forgotten to Give One to Their Guest.

When Charles A. Cotterill was making up a motor car tour in northwestern Ohio not long ago with a member of congress, the machine got stuck in the mud and the party invaded a farmer's house with a request for dinner.

"I don't know you," said the congressman to the farmer, "and you don't know me, but you elected me to congress, and now I want you to give us a dinner."

The farmer and his wife furnished an elaborate meal, and it was when the repast was half over that the congressman, with a worried look, exclaimed to his wife:

"Mommie, you didn't give Mr. Cotterill a napkin."

"Oh, yes," said Cotterill quickly, "here it is," and he took it out of his lap and held it up for all to see.

"Oh!" apologized the farmer, "I thought you didn't have one because you didn't have it on."—Popular Magazine.

WANTS TO DRESS AS WOMAN.

From a prominent man who lives in Ware county, Controller General William A. Wright of Georgia has just received a letter expressing a desire to wear woman's attire, and asking permission to do so.

"I have very much the appearance of a woman, and when dressed as such and wearing long hair I look a perfect figure of a female and would not be noticed as being a man. I wish to adopt this attire because it is more suitable for me than male attire."

"It's the queerest letter I ever received," said General Wright. He withholds the name out of deference to the man's family.—New York Tribune.

WAS IT WOODROW'S VOICE?

Evidently Wilson Was No Angel of Rectitude When He Was Student at Princeton.

When Woodrow Wilson was a student at Princeton he lived first at the house of Mrs. Wright. One of his classmates, "Bob" McCarter, who also lived at Mrs. Wright's, tells of a certain evening when the two were engaged in Wilson's study in a quiet game of euchre, a forbidden pastime in those days. On the table, as it happened, lay a Bible. A knock was heard at the door; McCarter swiftly swept the cards out of sight under the table and went to the door. Before he opened it he turned his head for a moment, the thought flashing over him that the conscientious Wilson might have put the cards back in plain view on the table, but what he saw was—Wilson reading the Bible.

It was the time of the great popularity of "Pinafore" and the strains of "My Little Buttercup" and "What, Never?" were all the go. Dr. Greene of the Princeton seminary possessed a deep, solemn voice. One day in chapel he gave out unctuously the hymn containing the well-known stanza:

"That soul though all hell should endeavor to shake,

"I'll never, no never, no never forsake!"

But the effect was somewhat spoiled by an irreverent voice in the rear of the chapel:

"What! Never?"—William Bayard Hale.

NOT AN EXPERT

"Goodman is wholly devoid of imagination."

"What is your evidence?"

"He went fishing and only claimed to have caught two."

MOOSE IN HARNESS.

When the duke of Argyll was governor general of Canada he had two young moose which had been captured on the banks of the Ottawa river, and trained to run in a light trap. The experiment, though interesting, was, however, not successful. Horses meeting the strange animals on the road shied desperately, and the moose, never too tractable, shied also. In "Yesterday and Today in Canada" the duke records that the driver had often to lament the new fashion of progression as he picked himself up, more or less successfully, after spills on the wayside—the young moose generally on its legs, but philosophically quiet, and not inclined to seek further adventure. How they would have acted as draft animals when fully grown was left an open question, for as they grew bigger it was decided that they were too large for a light carriage and too ungainly for a heavy one, and they were accordingly dismissed from the easy life of stall and manger.

BIT OF REAL PHILOSOPHY.

"Most husbands think they are good husbands."

"Say the rest of it."

"And most wives humor them in that belief."

ALWAYS SOME TO PULL.

"Politics doesn't always keep up to the times."

"No, indeed. For instance, you never hear of a wireless political system."

A GENERALIZATION.

"Pa," asked the small boy, "what is a demagogue?"

"A demagogue, my son, is a smart, ready talker, who belongs to a party you're not in."

LITERALLY.

Policeman (to suspicious stranger at midnight)—What are you doing in this store?

Burglar—Can't you see? I'm taking stock.

A Strange Story.

Argyle, Mich.—Mrs. Wm. H. Carson, in a letter from Argyle, says: "I was almost wild with pain in my head, and other severe pains, due to womanly troubles. Cardui gave me great relief at once. Further use of Cardui raised me from my bed of agony. Cardui saved my life, and I can't be thankful enough for what it did for me." Whether seriously sick, or simply ailing, take Cardui, the woman's tonic. As a general tonic for women, to improve the appetite and build up the constitution, Cardui is in a class by itself. Those who have used it say it does the work; it relieves, it cures. Try it. Your druggist has it.

DESTROYS FAITH IN WIFE

Sneering is the Unloveliest of Habits and Soon Destroys Affection in Either Sex.

Because a sneering woman is the unloveliest of beings, beware how you give your heart to this man who will deaden its impulses for good with his sneers.

It is a horrible state to be in when one feels every one is crooked and the only way not to be done is to "do others."

There is no one so unhappy as the woman with cynicism thrust upon her. She loses her faith and is given nothing to take its place. A sneer destroys—it cannot rebuild.

The girl given to sneering becomes disagreeable to her friends and a torment to herself. She believes in no one, then resents bitterly her unbelief.

Worst of all is it when those sneers are turned against love. Under the poison of the blighting sneer the purest motive becomes mercenary, and even the girl who knows she married for love is sometimes led to wonder if, after all, position, money and convenience are not the only matchmakers that count.

If you have a lover given to sneering, get rid of him. If that lover already has become husband, fight for all that is in you lest you become poisoned by his bitter sneers and turn cynical eyes upon a fair world.

Notice to Contractors.

The Fiscal Court will receive bids on Tuesday, July 2, 1912, on the following work:

300 yards pike near Holmes Walker's on the East school house and Crofton road, to be 9 ft. wide and 9 in. deep and well graded.

1½ miles on Moseley's Bridge and Pembroke road, to be 12 feet wide, 10 in. center, sloping to 6 in. side, well graded.

900 yds. on Fairview road, to be 9 ft. wide, 9 in. deep, well graded.

200 yds. on Kirkmansville road, near Foster McCown's, to be 9 ft. wide and 9 in. deep; also rock to repair Pike from McCown's to the Todd county line.

For further information inquire of E. W. COLEMAN, Road Supervisor.

CHANGED HER MIND.

"My husband and I were engaged for five years."

"You must be one of those who believe in long engagements."

"No. I did before we were married."

THE HABIT OF IT.

"That old sailor friend of yours plays a good game of ball."

"It ought to come natural to a tar to be good at a pitch."

THOROUGHLY POLITE.

"Pardon me, madam."

"For what?"

"I inadvertently jabbed my eye into your jeweled hatpin."

LAST WARNING.

All property upon which delinquent taxes for the years 1908 and 1909 are not paid by July 15, 1912, will be advertised for sale. This is the last warning and no further time will be given.

Electrify the Pupils.
They are using electricity in primary school education in Stockholm. Just how it is used does not appear, but we are told that the "classroom is subjected to electricity." And records are being kept to ascertain whether the electrically trained youngsters acquire the three Rs with greater precision and dispatch than those that are being brought up on sunlight, common sense and the rod.

THREE THINGS YOU NEED..

First—"Kentuckian"
A virile, newsworthy newspaper with the interest of the entire community at heart. Issues of the day are handled without fear or favor. You will find in this paper an up-to-date department for each member of the family. Clean, honest, straightforward—it is a paper your family should not be without.

Second—Technical World Magazine is the one magazine that not only entertains in a fascinating manner, but which also instructs. It is the magazine for the busy business man, or for the person who wants to lull away a summer's afternoon, and be agreeably informed at the same time. It is profusely illustrated, and tells in a simple and interesting way of the discoveries of scientists, the achievements of inventors, the feats of engineers and explorers, and the opening of every new field of human endeavor. What Jack London says—"I have just chanced upon my first copy of TECHNICAL WORLD MAGAZINE. There isn't anything like it. I want more, and I cannot wait for them to come, so I am sending you herewith check for which please enter my subscription and send me immediately the last two years' back numbers."

Third—A Fine Atlas
This one is just off the press. This is the year to obtain a new atlas. The 1910 Census has just been completed; this atlas contains the official figures. 128 pages of 3 color maps brought right down to date—every map giving the results of the most recent surveys. All railroads are shown and named and maps of all large cities are included. There are 21 double-page maps showing in detail portions of the U. S. and Canada. Dimensions 10 1/2 x 13 1/2. Bound in stiff linen—Silver Leaf Title—printed on heavy plate paper. Sells regularly for $5.00. A splendid gift.

ALL THREE Only $3.80

Special arrangement with Technical World Magazine and the publishers of this Atlas make this offer possible. But it is very strictly limited. You must act immediately.

Hopkinsville-Paducah
(Rain)

Saturday's Games.

Rain prevented the Hopkinsville-
Paducah baseball game at Paducah.
In the other two games occurred a co-incidence unusual in baseball, the scores, hits and errors being exactly the same in both games, both games being won by a 1 to 0 score.

Henderson made it three straight by defeating Clarksville by an eyelash margin in a great game.

	R.	H.	E.
Score:	1	6	2
Henderson.....	1	6	2
Clarksville.....	0	4	2

Batteries: Beck and Peck; Nicks and Basham.

At Cairo—In a wonderful pitchers' battle Cairo defeated Evansville 1 to 0. Though Cairo got fewer hits they were timely and coupled with an error, brought in the necessary run.

	R.	H.	E.
Score:	0	6	2
Evansville.....	0	6	2
Cairo.....	1	4	2

Batteries: Gossnell and Faulkin-berry; Hassel and Taylor.

Sunday's Games.

At Paducah: The locals presented the game to Hopkinsville through rank fielding. Hitting was light on both sides.

	R.	H.	E.
Score:	4	5	2
Hopkinsville.....	4	5	2
Paducah.....	1	4	6

Batteries: Renner and Smith;
Kuykendall, Nichols and Derosé.

At Cairo: Evansville took a rocky game from Cairo. Pitchers were changed freely, and the entire contest was slow and tedious.

	R.	H.	E.
Score:	8	9	2
Evansville.....	8	9	2
Cairo.....	5	12	1

Batteries: Turner, Gossage and Faulkinberry; Stulz, Pucket, Rose

At Henderson: Wright's wildness contributed to Henderson's victory, though the locals were lucky in bunching six hits they made.

	R.	H.	E.
Score:	4	6	2
Henderson.....	4	6	2

EVANSVILLE COMES NEXT.

Here Yesterday For Series of Three Games, But It Rained.

There will be sixteen games on the home grounds this month.
Evansville is here for three games.
The first game yesterday was prevented by rain. If the weather will permit there will be a double header today at 2:15 p. m. Then will come Clarksville for a game in the forenoon of the Fourth.

John Nairn has resigned as manager of the Paducah team and Center Fielder Hurst takes his place.

Out of five hits by Hopkinsville Sunday Lyon got four and Woody, the new man got the other.
